To give a funny approach, the ending of this scene will be, she is upset and hence feeling dizzy and funnily shakes her head and then it dramatically transitions to the next scene.

- Message - This indicates the price hike due to the government change. Also to show the Economic Stagnation.

Scene 2:

Another girl standing in cafeteria of her university or a restaurant chit chatting with two girl friends who are taking photos of their thumbs to upload on facebook and but this girl is uninterested to be a part of it and they funnily try to drag her to participate and take photo of her thumb but she is resisting and to make it fun, she runs on the opposite direction. This indicates the trend that was going on during the vote period in Bangladesh.

Again dramatical transition to the next scene.

- Message - This indicates the trend that was going on during the vote period in Bangladesh.

Scene 3:

A third girl is on a date at a restaurant and she is sipping a drink with a straw with a very boring face to make it fun as her date on the other side of the table brought a paper which has a headline that is something related to political unrests in Bangladesh and he is blabbering nonstop (with no actual sound) but the girl isn't saying anything as she is not interested in politics of Bangladesh and she is too overwhelmed with this conversation.

- Message - This is to depict the gap of faith between her beliefs of the nation and politics.

Then, she brings her phone out and texts in a group where all three of the girls are added as they are friends and texts - "Kire tora koi? And, an emoji or GIF that says I am bored."

Scene 4:

All three of them meets in front of a restaurant all looking upset ready to get into the restaurant and share their frustrations of the day with each other but before entering the restaurant, a guys from MACES (an educational consultancy firm) gives away a flyer to each of them which they don't pay attention to much.

Scene 5:

They get into the restaurant, sit looking frustrated and slowly throw their bag. All without any sound or slow music. Looking at each other discussing, hand on head of a girl to show frustration. And then suddenly, one of them picks up the flyer from the table and sees the "study abroad" sign as a getaway, they look at each other with enthusiasm, another one among them gets her laptop out, they get into MACES website and clicks on the "Book an Appointment" option.
